Question:

I want to update the operating system of my computer. As far as I know, I have to return the license. How should I proceed?

Answer:

If you activated the license online by entering a Product Key, you can return the Product Key and reactivate it later. You can return and activate the license only if the computers have Internet access. The computer where you want to return or activate the license does not have to be online all the time. It is enough if it is online while you are returning or activating the license.

Use your computer to return the license before you switch to another operating system.

Returning a license

To return a license in online mode

- Open the 'License settings' dialog box: Services application -> Utilities -> License settings
- Write down the Product Key for the license you are returning.
- Click License activation on the left. Then click the license you want to return.
- Click Return license.

You can now switch to the new operating system.

After having done this, you reactivate the license for the new system.

Activating the license:

- Open the 'License settings' dialog box: Services application -> Utilities -> License settings
- Click License activation on the left.
- Enter your Product Key.
- Click Activate license.

Notes:

You can also find your Product Key in Allplan Connect. Go to <http://connect.allplan.com/license>

Click Profile -> License administration.

Only administrators can use this function.
